Words we've banned from client copy.

And what we write instead.

“Innovative”

BANNED

WRITE THIS INSTEAD

Say what's actually new.

“The first booking app built just for home bakers.” Now that's innovative. You didn't even need the word.

“Solutions”

WRITE THIS INSTEAD

Say what you fix.

“We turn slow, confusing websites into ones people actually finish reading.” A solution, without the word.

“Seamless”

BANNED

WRITE THIS INSTEAD

Say what's easy.

“Book in 2 taps. No account needed.” Your reader can picture that. They can't picture “seamless.”

“Passionate”

WRITE THIS INSTEAD

Show it. Don't say it.

Share the work, the process, the tiny details you obsessed over. Passion is obvious when people can see it.

Which word would you ban?

Specific beats impressive. Every time.

Drop it in the comments. We'll add the best ones to the list.

Follow Dank Studio for copy that sounds like a human wrote it.
